Aude Le Barbey is a photographer who splits her time between Paris and the Norman coast, a way of life that reflects her deep, instinctive connection to nature, visible in every detail of her images and lending them their distinctive character.

Her work exudes a captivating ambivalence, where gentleness and serenity contrast with darker, deeply organic undertones that reveal her subjects in their raw essence, striking a balance both compelling and delicate.

Her pared-down images are built like carefully orchestrated landscapes where line, light, and shadow engage in perfect dialogue, enabling her to collaborate with prestigious brands and publications including Chanel, Dior, Harper's Bazaar, Hot Hot Hot, and Vogue.
